TUESDAY 17th JANUARY 1809.

SUNDERLAND THEATRE.

The season commenced on Monday 9th inst. with 'The Way to Get Married' and 'Katherine and Petruchio' for the benefit of the sailors belonging to the Wear, now prisoners of war. The house was excellently attended and the performance went off with great spirit. A splendid act one, representing the Muses crowning the bust of Shakespeare, surprised the spectators. It has at once a classical and elegant appearance and reflects equal credit on the taste of the managers and the execution of the artist.

On the drawing up of the curtain a sailor committed a breach of the peace by throwing oranges and apples from the gallery. He was immediately apprehended and remained in custody the whole night; on making a public apology the managers waved any further proceedings against him. It is to be hoped that this will be sufficient to deter others from so shameful a practice.

MAN AND WIFE

OR, MORE SECRETS THAN ONE.

SUNDERLAND THEATRE

The grand drama of THE EXILE was brought out on January 30th, with new dresses, scenery and decorations, alike splendidly conspicuous, for costume, propriety and elegance. Indeed greater magnificence was never displayed within the walls of our theatre than in the chapel of Moscow and coronation of the Empress. When we consider the requisite extent for exhibitions of this kind, it is really surprising to observe the order, regularity of the processions and the distinct disposition of the numbers called in to assist on these occasions. A peculiar couplet from lines to the memory of the famed Tradescants is particularly applicable of our theatre directions:-

‘While they, as Homer’s Iliad in a nut

A World of wonders in one closet shut’.

The performances appeared so unembarrassed, so perfectly at home that we could hardly conceive it to be the first presentation of a new and difficult piece. The characters were judiciously allotted and the simulation was generous as unconfined. Monday and Tuesday Miss Wallis, obviously labouring under extreme hoarseness, was obliged to omit her songs: but on Friday, having in some measure recovered, she afforded no small expectations of her powers when the voice shall have completely emerged from the lurking influence of a cold. Where (as has been stated) all were emulous of pleasing it would be invidious to particularize, and therefore we have only to congratulate the managers on their spirit, as they will assuredly be amply remunerated for their exertions.

Sunday February 4th 1809.

Mrs. Edwin made her appearance as Laetitia Hardy and Ella Rosenberg, and acquitted herself to admiration. Her subsequent exertions have been equally successful, and we have no hesitation to declare that the London stage will in this lady boast the most valuable acquisition it has made for years. In sprightliness of manner and ease of deportment she is unrivalled; and there is more of mind in her performance than we ever recollect combined with such versatility of talent. Our limits will not allow us to enter into the minute beaties of her style, or dwell on her harmont of utterance and brilliancy of point; we have only to regret that Beatrice was not among the list of parts selected for this audience, as 'tis rumoured it will be her opening character in town, and certainly best adapted to display her various excellence. It is no small praise to the managers and the performance in general, that the last week's entertainments have been conducted with a regularity and accuracy that would have reflected credit to the metropolitan stage. The lovers of the drama will turn with pleasing recollection to the plays of the Honey Moon, Pizarro and Provoked Husband-plays that derived additional importance from the merits of Miss Macaulay and Miss Simpson. The Elvira of the former lady was finely pourtrayed, while the clearness of articulation, the naivete of the latter in Camora and Miss Jenny, have stamped her a decided favourite. We congratulate the town on the improvement of its drama and trust it will be permanent.

TUESDAY 31st OCTOBER 1809

Celebrations for George III's Jubilee.

At Sunderland and Wearmouth, the morning was ushered in by ringing of bells. The Volunteers mustered and attended Divine service, after which they marched to the Moor and fired three excellent volleys. The Battery guns were fired by the Battery Volunteers. At 1 o'clock his Crispinic Majesty commenced his procession through Sunderland and the two Wearmouths. His majesty acquitted himself with credit but the lord mayor was the character which was best supported and chiefly attracted the notice of the populace, the number of which was computed at about 20,000. The procession was indeed a show of grandeur that no doubt will be held in lasting remembrance by the craft (?) for we understand that, many of them waxing hot with loyalty hesitated not to sacrifice their awl on the occasion, in order that they might end the day in the true spirit of conviviality. There were dinner parties at all the Inns and public houses in the town and instead of an illumination at night there was a subscription made for the British prisoners in France. A considerable sum has also been subscribed for the purpose of erecting, on a noble plan, a school of industry for the education of 200 female children; to be inscribed to His Majesty.

The Overseers of the poor at Bishopwearmouth distributed to upwards of 100 poor old women, one ounce of tea, a quarter of a pound of sugar and three-pennyworth of bread each, and to those in the poor house, a plentiful dinner and tea.

The Dispensary-Sunderland

At the A.G.M. of the Governors of the Sunderland Dispensary holden on 10th July 1810, (The Rev. William Gardner in the chair)

Mr. John Fothergill having signified his intention to resign the office of Apothecary, it was unanimously resolved that the thanks of the Governors should be communicated to Mr. Fothergill in the following letter, to be signed by their Chairman and published in the newspapers.

Sir,

We have received your resignation with very much regret. You came into office well recommended and during the period of 2 ½ years you have been in the office you have proved yourself worthy of those recommendations which influenced us at your election.

The uniformly good report of your moral conduct, unremitting diligence in discharging the duties of your profession, your tender care over the sick and diseased patients of this Dispensary and above all the unqualified approbation given you by the physicians and surgeons, not only convinced us that your conduct has been free from blame but highly meritorious.

It is therefore with much pleasure that we acknowledge your good services (which is no more than what is due to your character) and offer you our thanks for your useful and successful labours in promoting the benevolent designs of this institution.

We are Sir

Yours & etc.

At the house of Thomas Walker, now known by the sign of the Red Lion but formerly of the Dun Cow, situated on the south side of the High Street in Sunderland, in the Butcher's Market on Friday the 9th day of November next, between the hours of 4 and 6 in the afternoon, either together or otherwise as may be agreed upon at the time of the sale.

The said freehold well-accustomed public house, most centrally situated for trade , containing 5 fire rooms, a kitchen, garret, and a yard with 3 good stables together with the well-adapted brewhouse behind the same in which the various Brewing Utensils used and wanted for brewing are all good and complete with a spacious Malting, Malt Mill, Malt kiln and Tun House adjoining.

The casks will be either sold with the premises or not as may best suit Purchasers.

Part of the purchase money may if agreeable to a purchaser, remain on security of the premises.

We are happy to hear of the improvements making the Port of Sunderland. The extending of the South Pier has been carried on with great expedition and our correspondent informs us that it is surprising to see with what ease the very large careasses or wood frames used in making the extension are floated down the river and then sunk with such regularity in their proper places.

Notice to Master Mariners & etc.

Sunderland Navigation Act

The South Pier at the mouth of the River Wear having been extended a considerable distance further towards the east since a Light House or Tide Light was erected thereon, the commissioners acting in execution of the said Act do hereby give notice that the said Light House has been taken down and another Light House or Tide Light erected and the new works at the east end of the said Pier which will be lighted in the same manner as the former Light House or Tide Light was lighted for the benefit of navigation.

Wilkinson, Clerk.

TUESDAY 27th NOVEMBER 1810

In pursuance of an Act of Parliament lately obtained, the town of Sunderland has recently undergone and continues to receive various improvements. It, together with Bishopwearmouth is already lighted with lamps; common sewers are made, and a great number of obstructions removed so that the High Street is rapidly becoming one of the handsomest in the North of England. Great merit is due to the Surveyor Thomas Wilson esq. (engineer to the celebrated iron-bridge over the Wear) for his indefatigable exertions in carrying the Act into execution and effect, notwithstanding the opposition thrown in his way; but two persons have been summoned and fined for ordering the removal of certain lines of pavement. It is now hoped that no further detriment will be experienced in the great and useful comforts and decorations under his care and survey.

TUESDAY 4th DECEMBER 1810

Governors shall be holden in the Dispensary on Thursday 13th December at 12 o'clock noon for the purpose of further considering of the propriety of selecting two additional Physicians to the Institution

Sunderland Dispensary

At a General Meeting of the Governors held this day, it was presented to them that in consequence of the great increase of patients, more medical assistance ought to be procured; it was therefore moved and agreed to that a General Meeting of the Governors shall be holden in the Dispensary on Thursday 13th December at 12 o'clock noon for the purpose of further considering of the propriety of selecting two additional Physicians to the Institution. At the same meeting it was unanimously resolved that the thanks of the Governors should be returned by the Chairman to William Russell esq. of Brancepeth for the liberal donation of £100 he has given to the Sunderland Dispensary and Infirmary.

Signed William Gardner, Chairman

(Mr. John Fothergill, Surgeon, Sunderland)

A constant reader observes that amongst the several improvements and alterations which have taken in Sunderland, one of them merits particular notice. A common sewer having been deemed necessary to be made in the principal street, one side of which is considerably more elevated than the other, it was expected by the more enlightened part of the inhabitants that it would be made on that side best calculated for carrying off the superfluous water from both, but in this expectation they were disappointed, as the sewer has actually been made on the higher side of the street. As from thence it may be presumed some new discovery has been made in the system of hydraulics, nothing less than of water having a greater propensity to run up than down hill, it is to be hoped the public may not long be kept from the knowledge of a valuable discovery which would prove of such incalculable benefit to this country, particularly to the coal owners by saving them the enormous expense of making water levels, erecting engines &etc.

To the coal owners on the River Wear.

Gentlemen.

Having in the late disturbances amongst the pitmen of your several collieries, pledged myself to them, that, on condition of their returning to their work, and promising to fulfill the terms of their present Bond, I would come forward with Proposals by which to regulate their present contracts; I request that you call a meeting of the trade at Chester le Street on Thursday AM the 20th inst. At the hour of 11 and that 2 men from each colliery be required to attend. I shall then beg leave to submit to your consideration such new Regulations as will, I trust, at least remove the peculiar cause of their present discontent and which by establishing a better understanding betwixt you for the future may happily conduce to prevent the recurrence of those evils which have been attended with very serious distress to them and much inconvenience to yourselves. – I have the honour to remain, Gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant.

William Nesfield

Brancepeth Rectory December 6th 1810.

TUESDAY 18th DECEMBER 1810

A few days ago, Robert Scott of Sunderland, shoemaker, was found drowned in a pool near Hendon. He was very lately married to a widow who had been twice married before; and it is remarkable that both her former husbands were drowned.

To The Coal Owners Of The River Wear

Gentlemen,

Finding myself considerably embarrassed by a private communication of your wishes in answer to my public address to you in last week's papers, I am under the necessity of publishing the letter I have this day received from the Clerk of your Trade, (and which is here subjoined) in order that it may be generally understood on what account it is that the Meeting I had requested you to call at Chester-le-Street on the 20th Inst. is now postponed. When you intimate to me that you decline acceding to the request "lest such meeting should hazard a recurrence of the late disturbances", I can only say that the object I have all along had in view was intended to produce the directly contrary effect. I am perfectly aware that it is of the utmost importance to the interests of all parties concerned in the coal trade that any regulations of the future contracts between you and the pitmen should be put on a more equitable and permanent footing; and as I have used every means in my power to collect the best information on the subject, I presume to think that those I wish to offer to your consideration will at least have such a tendency. I shall only add that I am still ready to meet you on the terms proposed, but as what I have prepared is materially calculated to apply to the present state of things, I shall indulge the hope that your call will not be deferred to such a distant period as to defeat the purpose I had in view.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen, your most humble servant,

Brancepeth Rectory Dec. 12th 1810

William Nesfield.

COPY.

Rev. Sir.

In consequence of your advertisement of 6th December inst. Addressed to the coal owners of the River Wear, which appeared in the Newcastle papers on Saturday and Tuesday last, requesting a meeting of the trade at Chester le Street, I am directed by the coal owners of the River Wear to state to you that as the River Wear does not in itself constitute the coal trade, but that the River Tyne, Hartley, Blyth and Cowpen form also a principal part thereof, and from the experience of many years the period of hiring pitmen has been nearly the same throughout the whole, the River Wear Owners think it premature to accept your proposal, particularly to invite 2 men from each colliery to attend without previous consideration upon the subject lest such meeting should hazard a recurrence of the late disturbances- Should the present period of binding or hiring pitmen in conformity to the existing engagements be deemed by the trade proper to be departed from at the ensuing binding, the coal owners of the Wear have no objection to inform you thereof, as soon as it can be ascertained and will attend with deference to your recommendation as far as they can do so confidently with what is fit to be observed on such an important occasion; at the same time keeping in view the duty which they owe to themselves, their workmen, and the peace of the country.

Under all the circumstances, the coal owners of the River Wear cannot accept your proposal as it now stands, and therefore are desirous that you would defer the meeting till the important business is more matured than it at present appears to be.

I have the honour to be, Reverend Sir,

Your most obedient humble servant

John Martindale
