Latin	Extm fuit etc Gloucester 29 th June 1706 per Maria[?] Noble Thomas Neale.....

Transcriber's Note – This is the strangest spelling yet. Has to be read phonetically in a Gloucester accent. “On” is used for “one” throughout. Writing quite clear. But Latin is different hand not very clear at all.

Transcriber's note:

Fair copy gives total clearly as £120 05 08, but rough copy is just as clear £120 08 08 which is correct.

As there is no Latin on either the a or b version, it is not clear why this inventory is listed as 1712, when the date of its listing is June 1705

Transcriber's note: The writing on this inventory is horrible. I think many of the early references identify fields where crops are growing, but the names in lines 7, 10, 12, 14 and 16 are best guesses. The last item on line 30 certainly looks like Batterkin, but can't find references to anything remotely like that.
